FLEET WON'T

FDR ASSERTS

President Expected To Outline Aims in Talk
Tonight

WILL ASK SPEED IN SHIP PRODUCTION

President Will Speak At White House Correspondents' Dinner

WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Roosevelt, informed legislators said today, will tell the American people in his radio address tonight he has no intention of weakening this country's fleet in order to help Britain and other nations under the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease program.

These sources expressed belief the chief executive would make a rather "definite statement" on the subject of releasing naval vessels and would assure the public that under no circumstances would the American navy be placed in an unbalanced state.

Will Call for Speed

The prediction also was made that he would call for speed and more speed in ship production and make a new appeal for a united nation behind the defense program. Some mention might be made about strikes in defense industries, it was reported.

Mr. Roosevelt will speak at 9:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard time) while attending the annual banquet of the White House Correspondents' association.

More than 600 persons will be in the President's immediate audience, including Secretary Hull and other cabinet members, supreme court justices, Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, and other diplomats. Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee, members of congress and newsmen.

Congressional sources said Mr. Roosevelt would endeavor to set at rest contentions made during the debate on the lend-lease bill that he might give away large portions of the fleet.

It was said he probably would give assurances that any units of the navy transferred to Britain would not be vital to maintenance of a balanced fleet and would be replaced with newer and better ships later on.

Hush Hearings

Meanwhile, a house appropriations subcommittee planned to complete hearings and start drafting the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease appropriation bill. Both Democratic and Republican leaders said it would be taken up by the House Tuesday and probably disposed of Wednesday.

Although no real opposition has developed, some senators still talked of the possibility of moves to make part of the fund available as cash and the rest in contract authority.

Mr. Roosevelt asked all cash. In administration quarters, however, arrangements were reported underway to spend the whole sum in the next six months to obtain maximum speed in delivering weapons to Great Britain, Greece and other nations to be aided.

Screen Player Ann Sheridan, the "compli" girl, has ended her six-month holdout against Warner Bros. studio, agreeing to return to work for the same salary received last year. Last October, Miss Sheridan walked out, claiming that unless she got a raise above the "mere" $6000 a week she was receiving, the studio would have to do without her.

In City Hospital With Fractured Skull

Three New Middleton residents were injured, one seriously, in the collision of an automobile and a truck-trailer at the intersection of Routes 165 and 46, two miles east of Greenford, at 3:45 a. m. today.

Walter Persin, 44, of New Middleton, driver of one machine, suffered a fractured skull and was removed to Salem City hospital. His condition is described as serious.

Persin's wife, Diana, 45, suffered a back injury but was not taken to the hospital.

Rev. A. J. Staats, 56, of New Middleton, a passenger in the Persin car, received a lacerated knee.

George Roberts, 27, of Warren, driver of the truck, which was traveling south on Route 46 at the time, escaped uninjured. Persin was reported by the state highway patrol to have been driving east on Route 165.

Perry McArthur, 53, of 1200 South Lincoln ave., suffered a scalp injury when his truck was struck by a truck-trailer on the Benton road at 3:45 p. m. Friday.

Charles N. Strawser, 25, of Harrisburg, Pa., operator of the other vehicle, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving by the state patrol and fined $10 and costs at a hearing before Mayor Norman Phillips.

CLERK IS PLACED ON I-A DRAFT LIST

LISBON, March 15.—The action of the Lisbon district draft board today in placing its own clerk, Jack Johnson, 30, in Class I-A, was further evidence that the selective service program is no respecter of persons.

Johnson was classified along with 23 other selectees who probably will be called sometime in May for a year's army duty.

WOOSTER SINGERS TO GIVE CONCERT

COLUMBIANA, March 15.—The Wooster College Men's Glee club will present a concert at the Columbian High school auditorium, at 8 p. m. Monday.

The group, composed of some 40 men, makes an annual tour of the eastern states and is singing this program on the return from this year's trip. Directed by Prof. DeVeny, the organization will sing classic choral works by Palestrina, Negro spirituals, and familiar secular works that are the highlight of any men's chorus concert. A quartet and violin soloist will present numbers on the program.

The concert is sponsored by the C. H. S. music department under the leadership of Clair King, music supervisor of Columbian schools.

TUBERCULOSIS TEST GIVEN TO
180 SENIORS

18 Positive Reactors, Or 10 Per Cent, Shown In Examinations

HEALTH OFFICIALS
EXPLAIN ACTION

Positive Reaction Does Not Always Mean Student
Has T. B.

Under the supervision of the city health department, 180 Seniors at Salem High school were tested during the past week for tuberculosis. Results yesterday disclosed 18 positive reactors, or 10 per cent.

In addition to the Seniors, about 30 other selected cases of previous reactors were tested.

Health board officials, explaining for the benefit of parents who may be unduly alarmed, that a positive reaction does not necessarily mean the student has "T.B.," issued the following statement:

"The older concepts of tuberculosis were that everyone had the germs of tuberculosis in their body in youth, and in some persons this later became active. Our present day concept is that those who are exposed directly to people who have active tuberculosis, become infected with the germ, and this is a very early age.

"For this reason all children of the first grade are tuberculin tested, in order to find the active cases in the homes. This is called the primary infection, and does remain quiescent or dormant. Later at about adolescence the secondary, or active stage breaks out as a result of the primary infection, plus some other debilitating disease or general run down physical condition. For this reason all Seniors in High school are asked to take the tuberculin test.

When a Senior has a positive reaction to the test, it does not mean that he has an active case of tuberculosis, but it does mean that he has had a primary infection.

"All cases that have a positive reaction are then X-rayed to determine whether or not there is any activity. If the X-ray picture is negative, the case is completed, but if there is any suspicion of activity then a chest examination is given by a competent specialist in chest diseases.

"This work is done in the city by the health department and the school nurse, while the tuberculin testing material, X-ray pictures

Turkish Official Enroute to

(By Associated Press)

ISTANBUL, March 15.—Turkey's foreign policy remains unchanged since Germany's occupation of Bulgaria, the newspaper Ikdam insisted today.

"After the occupation of Bulgaria, the Eden and Dill visit and the fuhrer's special note to our president, Turkey's position seems to interest everyone," Ikdam said. "Our position remains the same."

"Turkey is a non-belligerent ally of Britain, bound by mutual assistance ties to oppose any act of 'aggression' leading to war in the eastern Mediterranean."

"Those ties were said officially to have been tightened as a result of recent conferences between Turkish leaders and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and General Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British imperial general staff."

"The Eden and Dill visit showed Turkey's relations remained the same—that we will always be loyal to our allies," Ikdam continued. "As for Hitler's special communication, this should not be considered more than a sign of politeness."

No official statement has been made yet, but observers believed it probable that President Ismet Inonu's reply had been sent to the Turkish ambassador at Berlin for delivery.

Premier Refik Saydam is expected to address the national assembly March 19 and he may discuss foreign affairs.

As a new indication of the country's defense measures, the newspaper Vakit said 200 parachutists would make a test landing tomorrow at an undisclosed point beside the starategic Bosporus, the Black sea end of the passage to and

Official Denial Expected from Both Greece

(By Associated Press)

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 15.—Nearly 100,000 British soldiers were said by neutral diplomats arriving from Athens at noon today to have disembarked with mechanized equipment in a southern Greek port.

At the same time it was learned an official denial of such disembarkation would be put out within the next 21 hours by both the British and the Greeks.

Nazi Fighters Active

These reports coincided with increased activity at Bulgarian airports, where hundreds of Nazi fighters, bomber and transport planes were wheeled out—ready for instant action—as German circles asserted the Balkan crisis was "reaching a critical stage."

One diplomat declared he would take oath and sign a sworn statement that his facts were correct with reference to the landing of British troops in Greece, although for strategic reasons the British and Greeks are anxious to keep these movements secret.

Diplomatic mail arriving from Athens during the early afternoon told the same story.

Both sources told of five British ships daily arriving from Africa loaded with men and war materials.

Already, they said, British troops have moved north into the Greek mainland as far as a line running from the Aegean port of Volos across to the Island of Corfu.

Diplomatic sources said mechanized equipment and armaments already were on hand for five divisions.

A neutral diplomat told the Associated Press that immediately on leaving his train he had seen the disembarkation of British troops with his own eyes.

He described cheering British soldiers marching down the gangplank and off to battle.

Reports Many Guns

He said British equipment in Greece included a vast number of anti-aircraft guns, anti-tank guns and many hundreds of tanks, both light and heavy, together with numbers of flame-throwing machines such as the Germans used last year on the western front.

In addition, he added, many shiploads of munitions and other war materials already have been landed. He said more and more ships were arriving daily at five principal mainland ports which he declined to name specifically.

Few airplanes, the diplomat continued, have been transported yet to the Greek mainland.

Because of the difficulty of communication between Greece and other Balkan countries, and also

ARSENAL STOREHOUSE, BANK

The United States will be the arsenal of democracy, promises President Roosevelt. It also will be the storehouse of democracy, add the experts charged with doing the deep thinking about how to dispose of agricultural surpluses.

Just as vital as either of these roles, because the United States could fill neither of them without using its credit resources on a scale never before approached, is banking. The United States is going to be the bank of democracy.

More accurately, in view of the fact that status as a democracy is not specified in the lend-lease bill as prerequisite to aid from America, the United States is going to tackle with a vengeance the unfinished job of extending credit to governments in which it has faith.

The job was undertaken in the years immediately preceding the World war, when private bankers began to lend money to belligerent powers. Their activity marked the transformation of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation. It pre-determined to a large extent America's later belligerency on the side of the allies.

Subsequently, the federal government, itself, entered the field, lending large sums of public money to the belligerent powers to prosecute the war. The post-war collapse, coming to a climax in the Hoover debt moratorium, jeopardized this enormous investment.

Its liquidation value, if a repudiated international obligation may be said to have any value at all, seems to rest now on the possibility of saving something from the financial wreckage of the World war by further extensions of credit. It is admittedly a gamble, differing only from the previous gamble in the still untried scheme written into the lend-lease bill of collecting payment ultimately in goods, instead of money. It is assumed that Great Britain, for instance, will be able to repay the United States in kind as some future date for such immediate necessities as airplanes, ships and tanks.

The enormity of the sums involved in this gigantic financial operation stuns comprehension. The figures have to be taken on faith, like the distances in stellar space. The helplessness of even those persons most highly trained in finance is attested by their growing habit of eliminating the last six ciphers as a concession to the limitations of the finite mind.

The figure of immediate interest is the 7 billion dollar appropriation requested from congress to give the lend-lease bill its initial effect. This represents, for the most part, aid to Great Britain—not immediate aid, but the cost of a program of assistance extending over several years. Addition of other programs of assistance, running concurrently with the first, would increase the 7 billion dollar initial outlay.

In its wider aspects, of course, the government's own swollen defense spending belongs with the cost of its aid program to other governments; the fact of a heavily armed United States cannot be dissociated from the ultimate welfare of the countries in which it has faith.

A table prepared by Arthur Kroek, chief of the New York Times Washington bureau, with the help of government officials, presents this sketch of financial operations under the over-all defense program:

As the program stands at present, exclusive of previous costs, appropriations and authorizations, defense will cost 39 billion dollars—32 billion for defense at home, 7 billion for aid abroad. This sum will be spent during the current fiscal year, which ends next June 30, and during the next fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1942. During the current fiscal year, defense spending has proceeded at the rate of about 15 million dollars a day.

Impact of this tremendous financial blow on taxation has not been felt yet. It will be, of course, extremely great. Income taxes, felt more widely than ever before on 1940 incomes, will be increased on 1941 incomes and further increases will follow. Beginning in May, the general public will be made conscious, also, of the drain on the nation's savings; a carefully prepared drive to persuade individuals to invest small amounts of money at recurrent intervals in defense savings stamps and government savings bonds will get under way then.

It is significant that the government has not believed it was necessary to cushion the shock of a policy making the United States the bank as well as the arsenal and storehouse of the nations in which America has faith. It has not been fearful of the effect on the people. It has counted on their confidence to assimilate new financial concepts without unfavorable effects. If confidence were lacking, or even impaired, neither the defense of the United States nor aid to nations whose resistance is held vital to American defense would be possible.

Even though the huge sums mentioned cannot be spent with anything like the ease apparent in their appropriation and might have been announced piecemeal, to break the news gently, the government has chosen to demonstrate popular confidence by confronting it with the largest sums in sight.

For Sunday, March 16

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of several conflicting situations, with adverse conditions offsetting those of promise and encouragement. It is a day for approaching antagonistic and frustrating situations with balance, control and restraint.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which reserve, calm judgment, prudence and thrift may vanquish hazardous conditions menacing pocket book, stability of fortunes and personal peace of mind. Shun extravagance on all lines.

A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious, studious and thoughtful, with warmth and generosity, yet it may be carried away by its generous impulses.

For Monday, March 17

Monday's astrological forecast should be for a particularly lively and thrilling day with matters moving to unexpected climax in all phases of living. While business, employment, etc., may be very progressive and bring tokens of preferment and probable promotion, yet the personal life, in the affections, emotions and romantic adventures may eclipse all other interests.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of sudden and startling developments, particularly in their private affairs, affectional and romantic.

This eclipsing possibly some very promising and progressive ventures of a business or occupational nature. Much dramatic experience and happiness may occur.

A child born on this day should be talented, original, capable as well as have an outstanding personality bespeaking high adventure and romance in its life.

Hitler now knows why Britain didn't want Mussolini for an ally.

"ADDITION TO AN OLD MASTERPIECE"

BRAZIL PROVIDES LEPROSY HAVEN

Care Is Discussed by Dr. Clendening

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

One of the few reservoirs of leprosy left in the world is Brazil. I had the interesting experience, on my recent visit to Sao Paulo, of visiting one of the largest leprosy hospitals in the world. There were over sixteen hundred lepers there and I saw every known form of the disease, under the courteous guidance of the director, Senor Doctor Valente. This, however, is only one of the five institutions in this Brazilian state — the total number of lepers under treatment being nearly ten thousand.

The leprosy is naturally in a secluded spot, twenty miles from Sao Paulo. Your car enters a gate-way guarded by a caretaker, who inquires carefully into your business at the hospital. Over the entrance are the words: "All ye who enter here, take hope."

Indeed, the entrants need it. They have most of them been dragging out a miserable existence, with a slow disease creeping over them, shunned by their families, now knowing what the trouble is until the state doctor comes along and spots them.

We have one leprosy in the United States, as I described in an article last year, but not to compare in size with this Brazilian institution.

Contrary to general fear and belief, leprosy is not very contagious — in fact, hardly contagious at all. I saw a surgeon operating on a leper patient—taking out an appendix—getting contaminated with the blood, being assisted by a leper—an old patient—but not at all apprehensive about catching the disease. He had been surgeon to the institute fifteen years and looked the picture of health.

Nor, also, does it break out on the skin in white patches, another popular belief. The usual condition is a very chronic infiltration of the skin of the cheeks, so you can tell the patients from the uninfected attendants by a peculiar kind of facial expression.

Patients Hopeful
It is a very long drawn out disease. If not responsive to treatment, a case may drag out for twenty to forty years and the leper dies of old age or some entirely inapparent disease. There are, it is true, severe crippling and deforming forms of the disease that are not pretty to look at. But most of the patients I saw were happy and hopeful. They have their own gardens or farms to cultivate, or work in the carpenter shop, weaving rooms, or other parts of the establishment.

According to Doctor Valente, they have very good results with the treatment by chaulmoogra oil. If the cases are taken early enough, and treatment is carried out regularly, about 75 per cent are cured.

The hospital at Sao Paulo discharges about ten to twenty per cent of its inmates a year. Relapses are, however, frequent, but the victim is taught to recognize these, and returns eagerly for further treatment.

Leprosy was once a common disease in Europe. Leprosy hospitals were in nearly every mediaeval city. It is a disease of poverty, filth, and bad sanitation. Just why it died out so completely is a mystery. One theory is that all the weavers were killed off. Then the disease lost its potency. Wars, crusades, mass movements of infected individuals ceased. But there are residues of the old infection here and there.

Rev. John Bauman Speaks Sunday On "What Is Prayer?"

Courageous Living
A Christian can live the only one attitude as he faces the issues of this day, an attitude of courage, born of a confidence in God. In the midst of people whose hearts are failing them, who are filled with fear because of uncertainty, darkness and war, the Christian stands upon a foundation that is secure and lives in the inspiration of a hope that is eternal. Thus he lives courageously and keeps poised, not because he is of superior human ability, but because he lives by faith in God, a faith that assures him that, regardless of the outlook of the day, God is still in the world, and He will work out His purpose even from the wreckage of human ideals and man's endeavors.

The people who believe live courageously. Spiritual victories come to the believing and working church. Confidence in God lifts individuals and groups above every situation which is set to cause their defeat. Let us face the issues of our day in the power of God and live courageously.

Christian Science Lists Sunday Announcements

"Substance," is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow.

The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WCLE (610 kil.) Cleveland, the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 9:30 a. m. The midweek service will be held the first Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. Thy faithfulness is unto all generations." (Psalms 119:89, 90).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: And if he be in prayer of faith, he shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him." (James 5:14, 15).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God—a spiritual understanding of Him, an unselfed love." (p. 1).

This society maintains a reading room at 135 South Broadway, where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. The room is open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday. ## Rev. Keister Talks On "The Knowing Saviour" At Trinity's Service

Rev. George Keister's subject for the morning worship of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church is "The Knowing Saviour."

Tomorrow will be the third Sunday in Lent.

Announcements follow:
Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. (St. Luke 22:1-38); Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

There are two Sacraments in the Christian church, namely, Holy Baptism and the Lord's Supper or the Holy Communion. They were both instituted by Jesus Christ.

Christianity practices the regular use of the Lord's Supper as an essential for Christian life. The Lord's Supper today is the Christian's privilege and a mark of his church membership. Only the church is authorized to administer the Lord's Supper. The church can reckon the faithfulness of its members, at least in part, by the regularity of their communing. To ignore the Sacrament of the Holy Communion gives ground for doubting the sincerity of a Christian.

Morning worship at 11. Sermon subject: "The Knowing Saviour."

Human beings are not omniscient. God is. He knows all things. Nothing can be hidden from Him. Jesus as the Son of God was empowered with the attributes of divinity. He told of His rejection and then of His coming crucifixion. He knew the hearts and intents of the disciples. They could not deceive Him with soft and well-meaning words. He warned them of dangers and temptations which would lead them astray. This knowledge of our Saviour is still present. No one can deceive Him with a double life. A false confession is not acceptable. That Jesus has complete knowledge of us and our lives must serve as a restraining force when evil would enter our lives.

"The Cross! It takes our guilt away; It holds the fainting spirit up; It cheers with hope the gloomy day, And sweetens every bitter cup."

From this information it is evident that the way to cure tuberculosis is to get the active case early. It is arrested and does not spread germs to anyone else.

All cases of early tuberculosis can be cured. The greatest problem in Columbiana county is to get the active cases of tuberculosis isolated in a sanatorium. The health departments can and will find the active cases, but this is hopeless unless they can be isolated until cured. "With this program, the mortality rate of the 'White Plague' has been materially decreased within the last 10 years, and with sufficient sanatorium facilities, it can be relegated to the limbo of small pox and diphtheria.

Health Commissioner Dr. R. T. Holzbach called attention to the fact that Columbiana county commissioners this year have less money to care for active tuberculosis cases because of a lowered county tax rate. Individuals who should be in a hospital will be out among the public.

Lloyd Walker will be best man. Ushers will be Donald Roher, Ralph Moore and Robert Tullis of Salem and Harold Sidwell of Barnesville.

WOTAN'S WEDGE

by FRANCIS GERARD
A PRELUDE
TO BLITZKRIEG

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

The General watched with considerable interest as the little man was beckoned to the operating table upon which he was made to lie upon his right side. The anaesthetist trundled his apparatus nearer and got down to work. When the patient was unconscious the surgeon worked with extraordinary rapidity making long, but not deep, criss-cross incisions as he studied the photograph held before him by one of his assistants.

When he had finished to his satisfaction he handed the scalpel to one of the others and looked up at the immense height of General von Wallenfels. He smiled. "When it is healed, Herr General, you will not be able to tell the difference."

The huge soldier nodded. "We were fortunate, Herr Doktor, in finding so many eminent surgeons of your type in Vienna, Austria is already serving the greater Reich most ably."

The surgeon bowed. "My thanks, Herr General. If you would care to wait a moment longer, you may see an even more interesting operation. This is an idea of my own and something which will give our friends a good deal to talk about and write about in their papers."

Meanwhile the little man with the now lacerated back was wheeled out of the theatre to make room for the next case.

This proved to be a swarthy, broken-nosed individual who looked like a punch-drunk prize-fighter. At sight of the General he drew himself up as stiff as a ramrod.

Von Wallenfels shook his head doubtfully. "You must learn to stand differently," he snapped. "What are you called?"

"Heinrich," with a sudden frightened glance, he hastily corrected himself, saying, "Emil Ginsberg."

Max von Wallenfels frowned. "You must be quicker than that, and correct your accent."

Then the Intelligence chief looked away quite casually; but suddenly he stepped forward and blared in Heinrich's face, "What is your name?"

"What were your parents' names?" roared the General.

"Herrmann and...." The man cast agonized glances to left and right as he floundered just before the General's hand struck him a stinging blow across the face.

"Your mother's name, swine!" "Rebecca," replied the man, his eyes nearly starting from his head. "Where were you born?" snarled von Wallenfels.

"In.... in...."

"You impossible dumb-head!" roared the General. "Get back to your barracks! See that you have your answers ready by this afternoon! If you can't answer the Herr Reichminister smoothly you will hang on the wheel of a gun for forty-eight hours!"

When the humiliated "dumb-head" had been dismissed, the General turned a blood-suffused face to the theatre staff. "What material they give me to work with! However, I must treat them with consideration because they are volunteers. That is the Führer's wish. If I had my way...." Von Wallenfels lapsed into silence.

"General," said one of the surgeons speaking with great diffidence, "is it wise to question the Führer's wishes?"

"Donner und blitzen!" shouted the General. "Do you think I fear the Führer? Surely I do serve the Führer because he has given Germany back to herself, but I have told him, to his face, what I started to say to you. Why these men can't afford to make one mistake when we send them where they are to go!"

His anger vanished and when next Von Wallenfels spoke it was in his usual even monotone. "I wish you good morning, gentlemen. You, at least, I can trust to perform your duties well."

The General continued his tour of inspection and visited a number of airy rooms in which dozens of men were sitting at desks arranged as in a class-room.

In one of these the lecturer paused when the Intelligence chief entered, all the men in the class jumping to their feet.

"Continue with your lecture, Herr Professor," the General nodded. "What is the subject?"

"Pronunciation"

"Now gentlemen, we will take the 'O' announced the instructor. He turned to the blackboard and wrote upon it "Sehr Schon."

The lecturer nodded approval as

Swinging round to his class, he directed. "Pronounce that, Number Seven."

Immediately a little man with a large nose sprang to his feet and said, "Sehr schon, Herr Professor."

The lecturer shook his head. "That is correct German pronunciation, Number Seven. Please be good enough to remember what you have been told about the 'o'. It must be widened. You must narrow your lips. You must narrow your mouth and the 'o' in schon should sound as the middle vowel in platt-menage."

In another room a little grey-bearded man in spectacles was taking his class in a different subject. Once more General von Wallenfels waited for a few moments to listen to the instruction.

"And now," cried the lecturer, waving his spectacles towards the front row of desks, "You, sir, Number Four."

Number Four came to his feet and, in the presence of the General, stood to attention. Von Wallenfels interrupted to say, "Stand at ease, man. There is too much of the appearance of rigid discipline about you all. That must be corrected. Stand slackerly, put your hands in your pockets."

Number Four sheepishly did as he was told.

"Now, Number Four," went on the professor, "what do you understand by the word Mishnah?"

"It is a part of the Talmud," "Correct," nodded the lecturer. "Which part?"

"The text, Herr Professor."

"Quite right. And what is the other part of the complete work?"

"The Gemara or commentary."

"That's right," said the professor. "Now, Number Six, what is the approximate date associated with the origin of the Talmud?"

"Which one, Herr Professor?" asked Number Six.

The lecturer nodded approval as this pupil avoided the trap he had set for him. The Talmud of Jerusalem," he replied.

"The date claimed for it is near 1390 in the Hebrew calendar...."

"Yes," agreed the professor. "Towards the close of the fourth century would be more correct. Now, Number Six, what is the other Talmud?"

"The Talmud of Babylon," replied the man promptly, "which is dated at least a century later."

"Number Fifteen, tell me what you know of the Halacha."

"The Halacha," began the man when he was on his feet, "is the Law as developed by decisions of the Scribes."

"Excellent, Number Fifteen!" nodded the little lecturer.

Prince Max of Wallenfels rose to his feet from the chair upon which he had been sitting and said, "My compliments, Herr Professor. And to your pupils. Remembering this, that in studying these books you are fitting yourself for services no less than the man who shoulders a rifle in the ranks of the Reichwehr."

The last of these class-rooms visited by von Wallenfels was that in which a specialized course in finance and economics was being given. Here the lecturer was saying, "The ethics of modern business are such as to allow these people to take all those advantages of their competitors provided they are just within the law of the country where they are operating. Now, in the principles of tax evasion, which you will have to learn, the methods employed are most ingenious. These you must commit to memory until they are part of your minds. In the matter of income tax...."

General von Wallenfels went back to the office which was in his headquarters very well satisfied with the progress displayed.

That afternoon the six gates of the camp were flung wide, at one and the same time, a most unusual proceeding, and the big bullet-proof car in which the Reichminister was travelling rolled into the camp. Ahead of it went armed motor-cyclists of the Black Guard, behind came a powerful car crowded with S. S. men, their revolvers ready to their hands, their daggers of honour dangling at their belts. As the two-ton car drew up before the general's headquarters, von Wallenfels emerged to greet his august visitor. A dark, restless, little man with darting, black eyes stepped out of the car and held his right hand up in the Party salute.

The right hand of Max Wallenfels went to his helmet and smartly down to his side again. The prince looked down into the darting, black eyes of the cabinet minister and smiled.

"Good day, Herr Doktor," he said, carefully avoiding the Herr Reichminister salutation.

As they walked into the building side by side, they made an amazing contrast: the one an aristocrat and a soldier who had done his fighting at Tannenberg and Verdun, and the other a politician who had done his fighting from behind newspaper press in the back streets of strong-armed cities.

"I should like to witness one of your operations, Herr General," said the Minister with staccato politeness.

"Certainly, Herr Doktor," replied von Wallenfels.

Shortly after they stood together in the operating-theatre with a surgeon explaining to them what he was about to do. The patient was brought in and, as the anaesthetist moved his tackle forward, said quietly, "You will not need that."

When the patient was face down on the operating table the surgeon turned to one of his assistants and asked, "Is it hot enough yet?"

The reply being in the negative the surgeon turned once more to the dignitaries who stood at his elbow and said, "We shall brand him behind the ear, at the edge of his hair. Thus he will be able to wear his hair long over the scar but it will be there for exhibition purposes."

They all laughed at this; even the man on the operating-table smiled grimly.

"It is hot enough now," said one of the assistants. The patient was handed a folded towel to put in his mouth as the tiny swastika brand glowed in the surgical assistant's gloved hand.

Recognition of Reputation

Membership in the Order of the Golden Rule is, truly, "recognition of reputation", for the Order's symbol of the Knight and Shield is merely an outward token of the fact that local persons, in a position to know the facts as no one else can know them, have endorsed whole-heartedly the funeral director who identifies himself by his use of the symbol.

The requirements of membership are exacting. No attempt has been made to include all funeral directors, or even the majority of funeral directors. The Order, with membership at this time upon five continents, exerts its influence because of the quality of its membership.

Every member of the Order must subscribe to, and adhere to, an inflexible Code, which requires, among other things, that the member must maintain a complete funeral establishment, must keep in strictest confidence all dealings with those served, must maintain high moral standards, must be truthful in all his representations, and must pledge himself to serve any deserving family in time of need, regardless of financial circumstances.

The Order believes it is rendering a distinct service by presenting and recommending the local firm listed below.

Rayen, Warren Move To Finals In Youngstown Class A Tourney

HILL'S QUINTET DEFEATS LISBON IN SEMI-FINALS

Warren Edges Blue Devils, 31-24, In Hot Fray; Fairfield Wins

YOUNGSTOWN, March 15.—Rayen and Warren came through with victories last night in the semi-final round of the district Class A basketball tournament at South High Field house.

Rayen topped Girard, 40 to 24, in a battle between the surviving seeded teams, while Warren nosed out Lisbon, 31 to 24, in a battle in which the valiant Columbiana county squad, battling against odds, had a fighting chance all the way.

Warren maintained a 12 to 10 lead when the first period ended. Lisbon spurred in the second quarter but Warren tightened and was ahead, 19-15, at halftime.

Held to one lone field goal in the third period, Lisbon became a defensive team to halt the scoring of Dave Venetta and Chester Labuda. Lisbons final bid for victory was spoiled when the lads missed five six times on attempted foul shots.

Midway in the opening period Girard piled up a 10 to 1 lead by breaking through Rayens zone defense to shoot freely from close range. Shortly before the end of the quarter Finamore made a basket from the side to make the count 10 to 3 at the end of the first period.

Rayens style of play changed completely in the second quarter. The North Siders reverted to a man-to-man defense and a quick-breaking offense. Rayen outscored Girard, 13 to 3, in both the second and third quarters, and lead 16 to 13 at the half and 23 to 16 at the end of the third period.

Preston Wilcox with 13 points and Ed Finamore with 12 lead the Rayen team. Anthony Rabacca had eight points and Bob Crooks seven for Girard.

Exhibition Baseball

AT MIAMI, Fla.—New York (N) 13; Philadelphia (N) 6.
AT ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Washington (A) 6; St. Louis (N) 3.
AT HAVANA, Cuba—Cuban All-Stars 4; Brooklyn (N) 3.
AT TAMPA, Fla.—New York (A) 5; Cincinnati (N) 0.
AT FORT MYERS, Fla.—Cleveland (A) 2; Kansas City (AA) 1.

LAKELAND, Fla.—The Cleveland Indians are having their little troubles. Lou Boudreau is nursing a sore arm and has played in only three innings of each of the last two exhibitions. Ken Keltner is suffering from sinus trouble, his annual spring ailment, and had to be replaced by Russ Peters yesterday.

MONTEREY, Mexico.—The St. Louis Browns and Boston Bees brought an all-major league exhibition series to Mexico for the first time in history today and both teams planned to start their best lineups to commemorate the occasion. Manager Casey Stengel of the Bees was worried about Chet Ross, who may be out 10 weeks with an ankle injury. There also was talk that Buddy Hassett may be dealt to the Washington Senators.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Hal Manders, rookie pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, who is a cousin and great admirer of Bob Feller, is naming his baby son for the Cleveland star. Manders learned yesterday that his wife had given birth to a seven-pound boy at the home of her parents in Evansville, Ind.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Ernie Lombardi's signature didn't end the Cincinnati Reds' backstopping problems. The big catcher still is limping from the ankle he injured late last season and has been ordered to give it a rest and Dick West, the rookie touted as a possible successor to the regular job, has shown alarming weakness on high, twisting fouls. He dropped four of them in five exhibition games and failed to reach three others that he was expected to catch.

THE DOPE ON PEARSON

Monte Pearson made his debut with the Reds the other day. We don't know how he impressed Bill McKee, but he baffled the experts. To wit:

Cincinnati Enquirer: Pearson escaped unscathed, but had little on the ball.

Cincinnati Times-Star: There was nothing wrong with Pearson's arm. He had a lot on the ball.

The Boston Globe sent one of its ace writers to Notre Dame to cover Frank Leahy's debut. Which gives you an idea how Mr. L. rates in the Hub. Incidentally, Leahy plans to pattern the Notre Dame play after the system he installed at B. C. Detroit will get one of the snappiest dressers in amateur golf when John Oswald moves there from Lansing in June.

Babe Dahlgren predicts Joe Gordon is going to make a great first sacker. Tim Sullivan, Yankee bat boy who is in St. Pete with the club, was forced into the background when the bat boy for the visiting team went about his duties smoking a pipe. Who was it said, "united we stand, divided we fall?" Ans. later.

Sam Levy, Milwaukee Journal: "Smart big leaguers insist Lou Novikoff won't be in the National league after the second or third day. They figure smart pitching will horsecollar the "Mad Russian," a notorious bad ball hitter."

College talent scouts are hot after Casimire Weinacker, 19-year-old forward on the McGill High school team at Mobile who has scored 1097 points in three seasons.

Elmer Layden is negotiating with a lease on Witley field or the Los Angeles Municipal stadium, with the idea of adding that city to the National Professional Football league. Red Dawson of Tulane was so pleased with the way New Orleans stuck to his losing Greenies last season, he admitted the fans free to a game between two picked teams the other day. Answer to sports quiz: Oscar Vitt. Frank Frisch is driving his men harder than any other big league pilot.

Pro and Con If they put Greening in 1-B Because his dogs are flat. Some won't agree, but Detroit can't see.

A darned thing wrong with that. Yes, What? All of which leads Squire Deak Morse of St. Johnsbury, Vt., to wonder what they'll do with the ball players who for years have suffered with square heads.

Greenberg in 1-B DETROIT, March 15.—The Detroit News said today that a selective service board examining physician at Lakeland, Fla., has declared Hank Greenberg, the American league's most valuable player last season, unfit for more than limited army service because of his flat feet.

Dr. Grover C. Freeman of Lakeland was quoted by The News as saying he had recommended to Greenberg's Detroit draft board that the big Detroit Tiger outfielder be placed in the 1-B classification.

Prohibit Bait-Taking The Ohio Conservation and Natural Resources commission, in order to provide fish with sufficient supply of natural food, has closed the various bodies of water to bait taking.

The regulations prohibit the taking of minnows, crayfish, mussels, and larval aquatic insects, except that minnows may be taken by angling, from the East Palestine reservoir and Guilford lake, in Columbiana county.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 15.—(The Special News Service)—Texas is cooling on that proposed Dallas golf match between a team of Texas stars and one made up of other pros. First, the pros want a $3,500 guarantee and second, Dallas feels it comes too soon after the National Open in nearby Fort Worth. Pennsylvania reported flirting with Roy Tendler, son of Philly's old lightweight star, who is a top notch basketball player. Hey, what was Roy Gillan, goal tender for the Illinois U. hockey team, doing wearing a pair of Chicago Black Hawk socks in a game the other night? An eagle-eyed student sports writer spotted him.

The Dope On Pearson Monte Pearson made his debut with the Reds the other day. We don't know how he impressed Bill McKee, but he baffled the experts. To wit:

Boy, 3, Rolls in A. B. C.

John Edward Zager

Only three years old, John Edward Zager of Chicago Heights, Ill., is an entry in the American Bowling Congress tourney at St. Paul, which opened March 13 to run for 55 days. Young Zager, who uses a duckpin ball, and has a high score of 27, will roll in the singles in the tourney, Sunday, March 16.

Orengo Tells Why He Plays Third Base And Not Second

SAN FRANCISCO — Following this is on "How and Why to Play Third Base", by that sterling exponent of the art, Joe Orengo, the San Francisco goodie sold by the Cards this winter to the Giants at the positively ridiculous, closing-out fire-sale price of $25,000. The Jerky Joe promptly bit the hand that desired to feed him, by going on a holdout siege and reporting to training camp more than a week late.

Orengo, when asked his business by those not in the know, has been wont to explain that he was "Far Western Representative of Branch Rickey's Chain Gang". Now, he proclaims his position as being "Far Western Representative of the Stoneham Millions". "When I first joined St. Louis", he recalled, "I was a bonafide shortstop. Mr. Rickey decided that I should play second base. Since I had never played that spot, I went around to the experts in the business to learn how it should be done."

"The first guy I tackled was Billy Herman, the Cubs' second baseman and the best man in the league at the pivot on double plays."

"He said the best thing was to tag the bag with my right foot and push back to get out of the runner's way and avoid getting hurt."

"I tried it—and landed on my back in center field."

"So I asked Bobby Doerr. He said to take the ball on the run, touch the bag with either foot and keep on going right across the bag while making the throw. That way, he said, I wouldn't get hurt."

"I tried it—and they picked me up near third base."

"So I queried Frankie Frisch. He said to jump on the bag with both feet and be ready to meet the runner as I got the ball away."

"I tried it—and my next stop was Emergency hospital."

But, we reminded Joe, he still hadn't explained how he became a third baseman.

"Oh, that," he replied, "Well, they figured that I couldn't play second and there was no place for me at shortstop. There was only one place left—third base."

OHIO IS FOURTH IN HUNTING LICENSES

OHIO ranks fourth in the nation in the number of state hunting licenses sold annually. It was announced today in a bulletin issued by the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service.

The service's latest figures are for 1939. They show Michigan with the greatest number of state licenses sold, totaling 711,733. Pennsylvania second with 661,330; New York third with 591,946; Ohio fourth with 521,963; and Indiana fifth with 358,386.

LONG JOHN BABICH AGAIN IS MACK'S PRINCIPAL HOPE

Swatting Power Is There, Too, But Infield Is Wobbly

(By Associated Press) ANAHEIM, Calif., March 15.—Late last September Connie Mack sent a big six-footer out on the pitcher's mound in Philadelphia with orders to smash, once and for all, the belated but threatening onrush of the New York Yankees to their fifth consecutive American league championship.

The Yanks were on the march. They had but a slim chance of overhauling the squabbling Cleveland club or catching the determined Detroit Tigers, but eight straight victories were behind the defending champions and it was up to this pitcher of the eighth-place Athletics to put the crusher on them.

He did, meaning Long Johnny Babich of Richmond, Calif., in a game of fives. He chalked up his fifth victory of the year over New York, ending their fifth straight pennant hopes, and he did it with a masterfully-hurled five-hit performance.

His Best Hurler

Today Connie Mack is depending upon that same Babich, an ex-Yankee farmhand, as the main gun of his drive to leave the cellar. Babich again is his best hurler—and he and Mr. Mack and the rest of the Athletics face a tough but not impossible task.

Back of Babich and what help he can get from the rest of the mound corps are three hefty swatters, Wally Moses, Sam Chapman and Cherokee Bob Johnson, the Athletics' outfield. Chapman, the former California football great, has looked better than ever in spring training, and there's no reason to think Johnson or Moses will slip this year.

The Mackmen also have one of the heaviest hitting catchers in the league, clean-up man Frankie Hayes, to help pour over the runs. There is nothing wrong with the club's hitting power.

But defensively speaking, Mr. Mack has a main-line worry in his infield.

Three Cities Bid For A.B.C. Tourney

ST. PAUL, March 15.—Three cities are making strong bids for the 1943 American Bowling Congress tournament. All are from the east and include Philadelphia, Buffalo and Atlantic City.

The award will be made at the time of the annual American Bowling Congress convention here on April 4.

The tournament is awarded two years in advance. It cannot be awarded to the same area in consecutive years, and no city can have the affair oftener than once in seven years.

Columbus, a central section city, gets the affair in 1942. This year the 1943 site will be selected, so it is up to the eastern or western sections to bid at the coming convention. The west coast is said to be preparing for a serious bid for the 1944 or 1945 tournament.

Lima Team Leading In Inter-City Meet

LIMA, March 15.—Bowling teams from Salem, Niles, Lorain, Gallon, Crestline, Massillon, Piquette and Bowling Green will compete tonight and Sunday in the second weekend of the annual Inter-City Bowling tournament here.

Kuehmann Chips of Lima, with 2,700 pins, is now in first place in the tournament, which ends Sunday, April 20.

THE GUMPS

Slight Error

PITTSBURGH—Curator J. Leroy Kay of Carnegie museum says he found one "slight error" in Walt Disney's Fantasia. The picture has a giant tyrannosaurus rex of the Cretaceous period fighting a death battle with a stegosaurus of the Jurassic period.

The periods are some 90,000,000 years apart, reported the paleontologist—but most people won't know the difference.

Theatre Attractions

Fred MacMurray, Madeleine Carroll and Stirling Hayden in "Virginia", technicolor film at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray, popular romantic team in "Honey in the Fall", are co-starred again in "Virginia", technicolor romance-drama at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

With them again is little Carolyn Lee, baby player who nearly stole the show in the Bali picture, and a newcomer, Stirling Hayden, who is expected to be his studio's biggest bid for stardom this year.

Others in the cast are Helen Broderick, Marie Wilson, Louise Beavers and Paul Hurst.

Needs the Cash

The story concerns the daughter of an old Virginia family who returns to the ancestral home to sell it for some much needed cash, without a thought of the traditions and background of the place. A young neighbor and his small daughter begin to teach her a love of the south when a wealthy young northerner appears as a prospective husband. The situation is solved through the erring wife of the young northerner.

At the State Wednesday only is the exceptionally good "Flight From Destiny", featuring Thomas Mitchell, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Jeffrey Lynn, James Stephenson, Mona Maris and Jonathan Hale.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday is the new film version of the early screen success, "Back Street", with Charles Boyer, Margaret Sullivan, Richard Carlson, Frank McHugh, Tim Holt and Samuel S. Hinds.

Concluding at the State tonight is "Six Sierra" with Humphrey Bogart, Ida Lupino, Alan Curtis, Joan Leslie, Henry Hull and Henry Travers.

At the Grand

The Grand's Sunday double bill will be "Sleepers West", a mystery-adventure of the fictional detective, Michael Shayne, with Lloyd Nolan, Lynn Bari, Mary Beth Hughes and Louis Jean Heydt; and the film play of Gene Stratton Porter's beloved "Laddie", with Tim Holt, Virginia Gilmore, Joan Carroll, Spring Byington and Robert Barrat.

BERLIN, March 15.—D.N.B. official German news agency, said today a high Turkish foreign office official arrived at Sofia, Bulgaria, yesterday enroute to Germany with a handwritten message from Turkey's president to Adolf Hitler.

A message from Hitler was delivered to Ankara by a 5-man commission March 4. Qualified sources said that the note declared the Nazis wished to look after Turkey's "interests and well-being."

Official quarters, however, said the message would have little effect on the pro-British policy of the country.

STARK MEMORIAL
RECEIVES HONOR

Word has just been received that the Stark Memorial has been accepted into the fellowship of an international organization of funeral directors, known in the profession as the Order of the Golden Rule.

Funeral directors belonging to the order are selected for their ability to uphold the ideals of this international organization. The order has members in Canada, Great Britain, India, South Africa, China, and Australia, as well as throughout the United States, and has been in existence for nearly a decade and a half.

The member of the order in each community identifies himself by means of a symbol, which consists of an armored knight with raised visor, who supports with his right hand a shield, bearing the motto of the order: "Service measured not by gold but by the Golden Rule." In his left hand the knight grasps a drawn sword, as if to signify his readiness to defend the high principles inscribed upon the shield.

because rigid censorship exists now in Greece, it is impossible to obtain confirmation of this diplomat's story.

The German legation in Belgrade declined any comment.

Neutral military observers arriving in Belgrade by air said 100 to 200 German military planes were being tuned up at the Sofia airport alone. Some were Germany's largest type bombers.

Similar preparations were reported being made at 24 other airports taken over by German forces in scattered sections of southern Bulgaria.

(German forces have been missing there for two weeks, presumably to add weight to reported German pressure on Greece to give up her war in Albania and talk peace on terms of Premier Mussolini.)

The most ominous-sounding statement yet from German sources was contained in a dispatch to Belgrade newspapers from Berlin saying: "The new moment has arrived which may have decisive results on Greek-German relations."
